

Torrent-Client

Some of the programs or games can be freely distributed on the net (e.g. Nexuiz or Balanced Annihilation). Since my upload used to be too limited, especially in the past below 100 kb/sec, I started to make it possible to distribute the whole thing via torrent, because all peers can help with the upload and their upload speeds up the process. So it is actually preferable to FTP as soon as more than one client is uploading at the same time. Two good clients are Azureus/Vuze and µTorrent.

Azureus/Vuze

This torrent client is written in Java, so it is available on various platforms. Its range of functions and settings is quite large. But it is also quite blky. You can get it here.

µTorrent

More or less the opposite of Azureus/Vuze is µTorrent. It is very small, has a quite good set of functions and is above all quite resource-friendly. You can find it here. Unfortunately the client seems to be available for Windows only. To get rid of the advertisement, which is shown in the program, there is a trick:

1. Press CTRL + P,
2. open Advanced
3. enter offers in the field Filter,
4. set `offers.content_offer_autoexec`, `offers.left_rail_offer_enabled` and `offers.sponsored_torrent_offer_enabled` to false,
5. set `offers.content_offer_url` to empty.

Now you are rid of this annoyance.
